

Conchita, to Me

Every day you wake up, brush your teeth, get ready for school, get to school and spend all day learning. Then you get picked up and wait until the next day. But what makes all these similar days the slightest bit different is what special things happen to you throughout the day. I know from the minute I wake up that “Today is going to be a wonderful day with many surprises.” Every day is another surprise because you don’t know what is going to happen. In a school like Conchita Espinosa Academy these surprises are made into joyous memories or life lessons. In my experience, Conchita has brought me closer to what I will be when I am a grown man, has taught me how to express myself as a person, to respect everyone, and last but certainly not least, Conchita has taught me to approach life in the best way possible – with happiness.

I enjoy every single moment that I get to be with my friends in this school, even if I am not in my best of moods as is what comes with being a teenager. But in the end I will remember all the friends who with each one came a different lesson of life. This school really is my second home and forever shall be.

I thank God for allowing me to attend this wonderful school. Thank you, Conchita

November 2011